SECTION: What is Agni?

Agni is the Sanskrit word for "fire" and in Ayurveda it represents all transformative processes in the body - most importantly,
your digestive fire.

Just as a fire transforms wood into ash and energy, your Agni transforms food into nutrients, energy, and eventually, the tissues of your body (Dhatus).

[Interactive: The Fire Metaphor - tap to explore]

──────────────────────────────────────

💡 FOR YOUR CONSTITUTION

  As a Pitta-Vata type, you likely have naturally strong but variable Agni.
  Your Pitta gives digestive strength,
  but Vata can make it irregular.

  This is called "Vishama Agni" - we'll cover this in the next section.

Lesson With Quiz

✍️ KNOWLEDGE CHECK

Based on what you've learned, which type of Agni is associated with Vata dosha?

○ Sama Agni (Balanced fire)
○ Tikshna Agni (Sharp/intense fire)
● Vishama Agni (Variable fire)
○ Manda Agni (Slow/dull fire)

[Check Answer]

✅ Correct!

Vishama Agni (variable fire) is associated with Vata because Vata's nature is changeable and irregular. This is why your digestion might be strong some days and weak others.

🔥 AGNI
Sanskrit: अग्नि
Meaning: Fire, Digestive Fire

DEFINITION
Agni is the transformative principle in Ayurveda, representing all metabolic and digestive processes. It transforms food into energy, nutrients, and tissues while burning away waste and toxins.

💡 YOUR AGNI

Based on your constitution and current state, your Agni type is likely:

Vishama Agni (Variable)

This means your digestion fluctuates - sometimes strong, sometimes weak. Associated with Vata elevation.

[Take Agni Assessment →]

📖 TYPES OF AGNI

Jatharagni (Main digestive fire)

Located in stomach and small intestine. Responsible for initial food breakdown.

Bhutagni (5 elemental fires)

Transform food into elements the body can use. One for each element.

Dhatvagni (7 tissue fires)

Present in each dhatu (tissue), enabling nourishment and transformation.

📊 AGNI STATES

| State | Dosha | Signs |
|-------|-------|-------|
| Sama | Balanced | Perfect digestion |
| Vishama | Vata | Variable, irregular |
| Tikshna | Pitta | Sharp, intense |
| Manda | Kapha | Slow, sluggish |
